Public contracts can foster job creation and training opportunities by requiring compliance with wage standards and reporting salary information.

Jobs and training

Public contracts that include accessibility and 'design for all' principles ensure products and services benefit everyone, fostering greater inclusivity.

Accessibility

Public contracts can promote fair working conditions by encouraging fair employment practices, such as paid leave and health benefits, or by upholding ethical standards throughout the value chain.

Working conditions

Public contracts can enforce environmental and labour standards by requiring contractors to follow specific rules like using eco-friendly materials or reducing waste.

Social sustainability

*SRPP stands for Socially Responsible Public Procurement.
